The goals of this community are to connect alumni and current scholars personally and professionally, encourage interest and prolonged involvement in the alumni network, and inform alumni and current scholars of updates to the program, the foundation, and affiliated organizations.

In order to meet the goals of this community, it’s important for members to feel that this community is a safe place populated by people with respect for others. As such, we request that you read and adhere to the guidelines that follow.

Guidelines
These guidelines are examples and not a comprehensive list of what we expect from the behavior and demeanor of a Luce Scholar alum. We expect, and know, that alumni will go above and beyond what we have called on below.

- Respect the privacy and personal information of other alumni.
- Respect the boundaries of community members.
- Do not make personal attacks on, bully, or make inflammatory remarks to other community members. Do not post prejudiced comments, use defamatory remarks, or make false statements against others.

This site is intended to keep alumni in touch with one another and to help facilitate networking. Some examples might include:

- Organizing a networking event for local alumni in the area
- Regularly communicating and updating your placement country’s group page
- Reaching out to alumni in similar fields
- Updating the live feed with interesting articles, your recent accomplishments, or questions about the program
- Requesting to make affinity groups for various underrepresented demographics within the community

Consequences
We will be forced to act when we see someone violating the guidelines listed above. Consequences will vary based on the severity of the violation. Some examples of possible outcomes include a warning, temporary suspension from the site, revoking privileges associated with being a Luce alumnus, and permanent removal from the site. Consequences can go beyond the examples listed here. We request that all community members report behavior that violates our guidelines to lucescholars@hluce.org.
